ROOSEVELT GETS NOMINATION IN A GIGANTIC CONVENTION STAMPEDE

McAdoo Starts Swing To Popular New York Governor At Friday Night Session; Favorite Sons Yield And Other States Join The Roosevelt Parade.

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 7.—For the presidency, the Democratic party tonight overwhelmingly nominated Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the Governor of New York.

There were 1,148 1/2 votes cast on the fourth ballot, and two-thirds of those, the number necessary to nominate, was 766. The total official vote was: Roosevelt 945; Smith 190 1/2; Baker 51 1/2; Ritchie 3 1/2; White 3; Cox 1.

Flying from Albany, Gov. Roosevelt will address here tomorrow to welcome the final session of the national convention.

In that session, the Speaker of the House of Representatives in Washington, John N. Garner, of Texas, is to be selected as the vice-presidential nominee for the campaign against the Republican Hoover-Curtis ticket between now and the November elections.

Swept to the highest honor of his party by a stampede that rolled away all his rivals except Alfred E. Smith, Roosevelt won 945 of the 1,148 1/2 votes cast.

Smith May Bolt

Smith, who got 190 1/2 votes, declined tonight to say whether he would support the party ticket. Close associates expressed doubt that he would.

John J. Raskob, the retiring chairman of the Democratic National Committee and a fervent Smith partisan, also said "I have no comment at all."

In his speech tomorrow, Gov. Roosevelt will formally accept the nomination, dispensing with the customary formalities which usually have been deferred until weeks after the nomination.

Mr. Roosevelt, shortly after the convention had nominated him tonight, requested a phone call from Albany that a meeting of the national committee be called at the Congress Hotel tomorrow night to begin preparation of the campaign plans.

Short Acceptance Speech

Mr. Roosevelt indicated that, while most speeches of this nature run an hour and a half, he will confine his remarks within a 30-minute period.

"I would like to receive the nomination at Chicago," said the nominee, "instead of in an expensive and formal ceremony here in Albany, which would drag people here from 45 States. They now are all convened here at Chicago."

With the force of a real stampede, Roosevelt swept through the convention tonight as the favorite sons announced one after another their withdrawal from the race and turned their votes into the swelling Roosevelt column.

He was declared the nominee on the fourth ballot, the first taken tonight.

When Garner released his State delegation just before tonight's session met, he started the stampede that swept across the excited stadium.

Smith Refuse To Withdraw

Alfred E. Smith was the only one of the nine original candidates who stayed to the end. The Eastern block of States with him staked clear of the stampede, too, sticking with Smith in the face of the sweep.

Setting off the tension of the night session, William Gibbs McAdoo at the outset announced a shift of the California vote—a decision he did not come here to deadlock this convention."

He was cheered by the hundreds of Roosevelt supporters who from the start have been given occasion to the New York Governor. For minutes another and almost the last of the wild passions testified in confusion past the speaker's stand.

The ticket will go to the convention on the first out and out vote platform in the dozen years that the eighteenth amendment has been in effect. In line with Roosevelt's personal stand, repeal of prohibition is made the pledge of the party as against the Republican platform that promises submission of an alternative amendment that would retain the Federal police power over the states for control of liquor.

In addition, the Democrats go for immediate modification of the Volstead act to allow beer and wine.

Debt Cancellation Opposed

The platform adopted this week also opposes cancellation of the war debts and advocates a "competitive tariff for revenue," a sound currency and a balanced budget.

The document calls for Federal aid to the states for unemployment relief when state funds become exhausted, a refinancing of the nation's farm debt at low interest and control of crop surpluses, and a cut of one billion dollars in the cost of government.

Pine Forests Of The South Can Give New Paper Supply

SAVANNAH, Ga.—A discovery that white paper can be made from virtually all the South's pine, opening vast new commercial fields for its forests, has been announced here by the Georgia state experimental paper mill.

Exhibits of white paper chemical pulp, made for the first time from long leaf and loblolly varieties which comprise 89 per cent of the Southern pine timberlands, have been prepared for display before the Georgia Forestry Association at Stone, Ga., today under the supervision of Dr. Charles H. Berry, of New York, director of research and former president of the American Chemical society.

The new methods of Dr. Berry's earlier discovery white paper and news print, made from a 95-year-old belief of scientists and paper experts, can be made from slash pine.

Slash is confined to approximately 10,000,000 acres chiefly in Georgia, Florida and a strip of the Gulf coast, but the new white paper, made from approximately 10,000,000 acres constituting the bulk of the southern forests through Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Tennessee, Texas and Oklahoma.

Dr. Berry's exhibits include both bleached and unbleached chemical pulps from long leaf and loblolly, bleached sulfite is the standard process for making finer grades of pulp and bond papers and unbleached for parts of the material of which news print paper is made. Previously it had been supposed that the process for making fine grades of pulp and bond papers and unbleached for parts of the material of which news print paper is made. Dr. Berry found resin does not decay. Beautiful, by S. F. Bratter. 1:45-2:30—Fiddlers' contest; 2:30 prize for best "fiddler." 2:30-2:50—Growing Nitrogen on the Farm, by J. C. ## GARNER IS PLACED BESIDE ROOSEVELT ON PARTY'S TICKET

CHICAGO STADIUM.—To go forth to battle beside Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt against the Republican ticket, Speaker John N. Garner Saturday was nominated for the vice presidency by the tumultuous acclamation of the Democratic convention.

While the presidential nominee winged his way from Albany to address the enthusiastic assembly, state after state rushed to Garner.

Even the knot of Smith states which held out to the last against the New York governor, Friday night, joined to make the second place choice unanimous.

The Tammany delegation itself, through the voice of its leader—John F. Curry—accepted Roosevelt's choice for a running mate although it opposed the governor himself on Friday night's decisive ballot.

Alfred E. Smith was not among them, however, having left for home in the afternoon, still refusing to say whether he would back the ticket in the Fall. His lips, curling slightly, his word on board the train was, "I have nothing at all to say."

Not a single voice broke the thousands that had fallen over the millions in the stadium when Senator Connally, fellow Texan, asked if there was any opposition to Garner.

But when he called for those in favor to speak, a thundering roar of "aye" broke the rafters ring. When Senator Walsh of Montana, ordered the call of the states, Alabama yielded to Texas. Up stepped Representative Bayburn, Garner's manager in the hunt for the presidential nomination.

With the Texas delegation standing on its chairs and waving pennants carrying the picture of their favorite, he obtained unanimous consent for Representative McDuffie of Alabama to place the speaker in nomination.

That was but the beginning of activity by one after another of senators, who have been close to Garner in the 30 years that he has been in Congress. Reciting his praises as a man who has known him closely, a number of the national legislators took the floor to second his name.

In sharply enunciated phrases, the renowned Republican role and proclaimed that "first on the roll call in November, Alabama will answer 'aye' almost unanimously" for the Democratic ticket.

Pausing a moment while multitudes of Senators shouted approval, he plunged on to call Garner "fear red-blooded head-born of Revolution stock of old Virginia."

Another uproar greeted him. It was followed as often as a pealing speech came, and there were many. Every time a Garner fan ended, the Texans rose as one to cheer and swing their arms aloft with banners and hats slashing the air.

The only other nominee, Gen. Matthew A. Tinley, Council Bluffs, Iowa, signalled the formal decision in withdrawing his name and making the motion the convention go unanimously Garner. Amidst applause, he returned to his place with the Iowans who had backed him and Senator Connally put the question.

Democrats Vote Repeal Plank In Party's Platform

CHICAGO STADIUM, June 30.—national convention rocked with emotion but the Democratic Party overwhelmingly on record shortly after midnight as favoring prohibition repeal and Volstead modification.

The vote was 934 3-4 for the repeal commitment, to 213 3-4 in favor of only recommending submission of a repeal amendment. Weary from the 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. session, the delegates broke up at 1 a.m. to meet again at noon today.

For more than three exciting hours debate had run with a fervor that roused both the delegates and galleries to demonstrations bordering at times on the riotous.

From the outset, it was evident triumph was certain for the repeal plank, including some from the South, joined arms with the outspoken west delegations from the industrial East.

Smith Fights For Repeal

Hailed by a swirling and tumultuous parade, the vote went the way that Alfred E. Smith had advocated in a crackling speech reminiscent of his palmy campaign days.

The vote showed the lines for favorites for the nomination split into instantane flames. The nominees of Franklin D. Roosevelt in seeking to top the ticket, calling to come tomorrow had no part, care having been taken by his organization early in the day to say that it was keeping "hands off," leaving Roosevelt delegates to vote as they would.

Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, led the losing attempt to confine the prohibition plank to an advocacy of submitting a repeal amendment to the people. Contrasting with the tumult that Smith and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, inspired for their side, Hull had difficulty leading the audience at all. He and other opponents of pleasing repeal, which cattails and hares could hardly be heard for consecutive sentences.

Just before the vote, Ritchie set off more roars of approval in saying: "I haven't the heart to keep any longer from having a chance to vote for repeal."

His supporters and those for Smith in the nomination hunt seized upon their appearances on the speakers' platform to set off demonstrations, while the Roosevelt partisans clung to their chairs. Shouts of approval greeted the solid vote of 94 by New York and 76 by Pennsylvania for advancing repeal, while cattails and hares was the return that the vote of 22 by Oklahoma on the submission side got.

Texas and South Carolina were of the states that went solidly for the extreme plank.
